Open Letter to Catholic Theologians at the Dominican House of Studies.

I asked the Holy Father and the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith to correct the Catholic Church in the United States for using irrational arguments for God's existence based on science (see: www.newevangelist.me) and promoting the authenticity of the Shroud of Turin (see: www.dkroemer.com). Through its universities, the Catholic Church also disseminates misinformation about evolutionary biology that is contrived to denigrate religion (see: www.pseudoscience123.com).

I recently has an insight into why many people think the Big Bang and other scientific observations constitute evidence that God exists. I expressed this insight as best I could in an article titled "Why People Believe God Caused the Big Bang" and submitted it to The Thomist. It was rejected, but I suspect the reviewer did not understand my insight. I sent a fax of this article to all of you.

I would like to give a seminar in Washington, D.C. to explain my theory and the other three matters listed above. With all due respect, I'd like to remind you that Catholic theologians have a duty to assist the Magisterium.

Very truly yours,
David Roemer
